

The six-day annual electric vehicle exhibition in Jakarta, concluded on May 4, showcases bigger potential for future adoption of EVs in the world's fourth-most-populous country, with analysts ...

Chinese brands are not just present in Indonesia's EV market--they dominate it. Between January and July 2025, total EV sales reached 42,178 units, almost matching the 43,188 units sold in ...

Randy Varianda, a 30-year-old IT professional from Yogyakarta who now works in Jakarta, shares a similar view. Last weekend, he visited the 2026 Indonesia International Motor Show, where ...

[JAKARTA] Chinese carmakers drove a huge surge in Indonesia's electric vehicle (EV) sales last year, more than doubling to a record 43,000 units. Growth is expected to continue in 2025 ...

China, the world leader in EV production, sees Indonesia as a significant opportunity for expanding its electric vehicle market. This article explores China's EV potential in Indonesia, focusing ...

VinFast, an automotive company from Vietnam, is planning to introduce electric motorcycles in Indonesia as part of its business expansion. The population of electric cars is rising ...

On the streets of Jakarta and other major Indonesian cities, Chinese electric vehicles (EVs) are becoming a familiar sight - a sign of their growing appeal in Southeast Asia's largest auto ...

Daily updated information about Chinese electric cars and their sales data.

JAKARTA -- Japanese automakers, long competitive in Indonesia, Southeast Asia's largest market, are facing pressure to reassess production capacity as they grapple with a shrinking ...

Web: <https://www.scmindustries.co.za>