

President George H.W. Bush elevated it to national laboratory status in 1991 and renamed it to reflect an expanded focus.

Residential solar company Complete Solar announced it will change its name to SunPower, after completing acquisition of the bankrupt-SunPower's assets last year.

The Trump administration has renamed the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, now calling it the National Laboratory of the Rockies, marking an identity shift for the Golden, Colorado...

The Department of Energy announced the National Renewable Energy Laboratory will change its name, highlighting the shift under Trump's policy.

In 1991, it was elevated to national laboratory status under the presidency of George H.W. Bush and renamed NREL to reflect its broader range of work around renewable energy.

The US Department of Energy (DoE) has renamed the National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL) in Colorado as the National Laboratory of the Rockies, a change it says aligns ...

SunPower, once one of the largest photovoltaic companies in the United States, will soon be taken over and restarted by Complete Solaria after filing for bankruptcy in 2024. Complete Solar ...

The Trump administration's Energy Department on Monday renamed the National Renewable Energy Laboratory -- or NREL, headquartered in Golden -- removing any mention of ...

WASHINGTON, Dec 2 (Reuters) - The Trump administration has renamed one of the country's energy laboratories to remove the word "renewable" in the latest effort to downplay electricity sources...

Photovoltaic (PV) technologies - more commonly known as solar panels - generate power using devices that absorb energy from sunlight and convert it into electrical energy through semiconducting ...

Web: <https://www.scmindustries.co.za>